Early Adolescence – Adolescence (EAA)
Special Education Certification and Master’s Degree

Why this UWM program is right for you:
- Experienced Faculty: recognized leaders in the field of special education with expertise in urban teaching, inclusive education, language and literacy, curriculum, and assistive technology
- Urban Focus: culturally responsive teaching methods to reach students from diverse backgrounds
- UWM/MPS Internship Program: opportunity to learn while on-the-job teaching
- Evening Classes: scheduling options which meet the needs of working professionals and adult learners
- Master’s Degree Option: certification can be combined with a Master’s Degree in Exceptional Education

To apply to this program, you will need:
- Bachelor’s Degree from an accredited institution of higher education
- Undergraduate Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.50 or above
- An active 5-year Wisconsin Teaching License

Program Structure: (See the back of this page for the typical sequence of courses in the one year program)
- Cohort Model: student groups move through the program together
- Field-based Teaching Experiences: extensive and supervised work in schools and classrooms
- Cross-categorical Certification: program content prepares individuals to teach students with cognitive disabilities, emotional-behavioral disabilities, and learning disabilities in grades 6 through 12

Teacher Certification: This program leads to certification in Cross-categorical Special Education (DPI license subject 801) at the Early Adolescence to Adolescence level (grades 6-12)

Master’s Degree Option: Individuals can earn certification and a Master’s Degree through UWM’s program. Once accepted, if interested in the Master's Degree Option apply to the Graduate School during your first semester

Praxis I Test: If you do not have an active 5-year Wisconsin Teaching License, the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction (DPI) requires that you pass the Praxis I Pre-Professional Skills Test (PPST) prior to admission into a teacher certification program. The Praxis I is an assessment in the areas of reading, writing, and math. The current minimum passing scores for the Praxis I computer and paper-based subtests are as follows: Reading – 175 | Writing – 174 | Mathematics – 173.
